

2017–2018 Kid Reporter Application

Thank you for your interest in becoming a Scholastic News Kid Reporter! To be considered, you must be between the ages of 10–14 (must be 10 years old by August 31, 2017) and complete and submit all of the following:

- A typed news article (maximum 400 words) about a person or an organization making a difference in your community. The article must include at least two quotes from at least two interviews.
- A typed essay (maximum 250 words) that answers the questions: Why do you want to be a Kid Reporter? What do you hope to learn as a Kid Reporter?
- Two ideas for stories about your community that you would like to work on as a Kid Reporter.
- A basic background information form that lets Scholastic News Kids Press Corps editors know more about you.
- A Student Release Form (form provided by Scholastic must be completed and signed by your parent/legal guardian).
- A large, recent photograph of yourself that, if you are selected as a Kid Reporter, will appear on the Scholastic website when we announce the new 2017–2018 Kid Reporters (this can be a color printout or an actual photograph, but we cannot return any submitted photographs).

When complete, send all of these materials to:

Scholastic News Kids Press Corps/Apply
557 Broadway
New York, NY 10012-3999

All applications MUST be received by May 31, 2017.
NO LATE APPLICATIONS WILL BE ACCEPTED!

Scholastic News Kids Press Corps Student Release Form

I _____ am the parent/guardian of _____ and for valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, do hereby give my consent for my son/daughter to volunteer as a student reporter in the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps. In doing so, I acknowledge and agree that:

- I. Scholastic Inc. ("Scholastic") will not financially compensate or reward my child for his/her service as a student reporter in the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps.
- II. I understand that my child's participation in the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps will entail researching and writing articles during the school year, and that preparation of such articles may involve travel and/or on-site reporting, if appropriate to the story. Long distance travel required by Scholastic will be reimbursed in accordance with Scholastic's travel policies. I understand that my child's participation is subject to the Scholastic News Guidelines (Exhibit A).
- III. Scholastic may photograph and/or interview my child and use such photographs or quotes, either with or without his/her name and any biographical information and/or other materials supplied to Scholastic by my child in his/her application or otherwise, at any time, in any and all media now known or hereafter developed for editorial, illustration, promotion, advertising, trade and other similar purposes in connection with its various books, magazines and publications and other activities or for general corporate or institutional marketing, without further notice or any compensation. Further, I understand that, subject to age requirements, my child may use various third party social media outlets (such as but not limited to Twitter) in his or her capacity as a Scholastic student reporter in consultation with Scholastic News Kids Press Corps editors. I consent to such participation and acknowledge that I am responsible for reviewing the terms of use and privacy policies of any such sites.
- IV. All articles, reports, stories, or interviews (collectively, "Articles") that my child writes or other produces, develops, or conducts on behalf of Scholastic, and all other materials related thereto that my child writes or otherwise produces, develops or conducts on behalf of Scholastic, will be deemed the exclusive property of Scholastic and may be used in connection with its various publications and other activities, without any further obligation to me or my child. I and my child hereby assign and transfer to Scholastic any and all rights, including without limitation copyright, in the Articles. Without limiting the foregoing, (a) Scholastic shall have the right to copyright the Articles in the name of Scholastic or any name that Scholastic may choose, and (b) I and my child will not use or authorize others to use any of the Articles without Scholastic's prior written consent, except as part of my child's personal portfolio for school or job applications purposes. Nothing contained herein shall be deemed to obligate Scholastic to make any use of the rights granted herein.
- V. Scholastic may use any photographs or video (collectively, "Photos") of my child or that my child or I take or deliver to Scholastic while serving in the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps at any time, in any and all media now known or hereafter developed for editorial, illustration, promotion, advertising, trade and other similar purposes in connection with its various books, magazines and publications and other activities or for general corporate or institutional marketing, without further notice or any compensation. I represent and warrant that my child's Articles and Photos are and will be original work to him/her that have not been previously published. I and my child hereby assign and transfer to Scholastic any and all rights, including without limitation copyright, in the Photos, and I represent and warrant that I and my child have all rights necessary to make the grant of rights contained herein.

- VI. Without limiting anything contained herein, Scholastic may share any Articles and/or Photos either created by my child or featuring my child with outside news organizations including without limitation newspapers, magazines, and television and radio stations, whether in the form of press releases, electronic press kits or otherwise. Further, I understand that in connection with Scholastic's press outreach for the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps, Scholastic may arrange or facilitate interviews of my child with the media.
- VII. I hereby release Scholastic and its affiliates and authorized representatives, as well as their officers, directors and employees ("Released Entities"), on behalf of me and my child, from any and all actions, suits, claims and demands of any kind whatsoever, which either of us, our heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, had, now have or hereafter may have, by reason of any matter related to the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps and the activities described herein. Without limiting the foregoing, the Released Entities will not be held accountable for any accident or injury obtained while my child attends or travels to/from an event, function, or interview on behalf of the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps.
- VIII. My child may be allowed to communicate with Scholastic directly via e-mail or other media.
- IX. I understand that Scholastic is not responsible for any child's behavior on the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps and that if my child breaks Scholastic's Kids Press Corps Guidelines (attached hereto as Exhibit A, and which I have read and acknowledge), I understand that my child's membership in the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps may be terminated, provided Scholastic shall retain any and all rights in the Articles and Photos set forth herein.

I have read the above and agree with and give my consent to what it says

EXHIBIT A: Kid Reporter Guidelines

Dress

The dress code is casual and neat. Scholastic provides each Kid Reporter with a red polo shirt with the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps logo on it, along with a press badge. When on assignment, Kid Reporters must wear badges and red shirts with nice slacks, preferably khakis or black pants, or a skirt. Dress shoes are not necessary, but Kid Reporters should look neat, clean, and comfortable. No T-shirts with slogans or logos. Kid Reporters are not only representing themselves, but also representing their schools and Scholastic.

Supplies

Scholastic will provide press credentials. Kid Reporters must be prepared to take notes (have a small note pad and pen handy all times), and if possible, record the interview. If Kid Reporters do not have a tape recorder or smart phone with recording capabilities, they need to have someone with them to help take notes during interviews.

Photographs

If Kid Reporters have access to a digital camera, still or video, they are encouraged to use it. Kid Reporters can e-mail pictures to Scholastic to accompany their articles. They may also enlist a teacher or family member to help with taking pictures. Kid Reporters must be sure to take a variety of shots and tell Scholastic who took the photographs and/or videos they submit.

Transportation

It is up to Kid Reporters' parents/guardians or teachers to transport them to and from an event or interview. When necessary, the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps editor will work with Kid Reporters to obtain credentials for them and parents/guardians. Kid Reporters should never arrange to do any interviews alone. They must have an adult with them at all times.

Talking to the Press

Kid Reporters may be interviewed by other members of the press about their experiences with the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps. Beforehand, someone from Scholastic Corporate Communications will be in touch to discuss how to answer questions about the program and availability for interviews throughout the year. In some cases, Kid Reporters' parents/guardians may need to arrange for transportation to and from such interviews. If Kid Reporters are approached by members of the press, they must inform Scholastic ASAP and provide name and contact information for the journalist.

Kid Reporter Conduct

Scholastic News Kid Reporters are important "ambassadors" of Scholastic and their schools, and they are expected to represent the company the best they can—whether it's on location for an assignment, in an interview with media outlets, or in social media. This means they must:

- Be respectful: Always behave in a polite and professional way.
- Be on time: Punctuality shows respect for the person being interviewed.

- Be prepared: Do research, and have questions ready.
- Be honorable: Ask for help if needed, but never plagiarize or copy someone else's work, even in part. Always cite sources.
- Be a team player: There are many Kid Reporters across the country and around the world. Occasionally, Kid Reporters may have the chance to help one another to write a story or cover breaking news.

Social Media Policy

If Kid Reporters are under the age of 13:

- DON'T identify yourself as a Scholastic News Kid Reporter on social media.
- DON'T share your Kid Reporter stories on social media.
- DON'T reach out to people who you would like to interview through social media. Story ideas should be submitted to your editor for approval first.
- DON'T respond to requests for media to interview you that come through social media or any other way – please send all requests from the media to Scholastic.
- DON'T share information about stories you are working on that have not yet been published.
- DO have a discussion with your parent or guardian before creating accounts or doing anything on social media.
- DO encourage your parents or guardians to share your Kid Reporter stories with their followers.

If Kid Reporters are 13 years old or over:

- DON'T share information about stories you are working on that have not yet been published.
- DON'T reach out to people who you would like to interview through social media. Story ideas should be submitted to your editor for approval first.
- DON'T respond to requests for media to interview you that come through social media or any other way – please send all requests to Scholastic.
- DON'T create fan pages using the Scholastic News Kids Press Corps brand (for example: a Facebook fan page for your work as a Kid Reporter).
- DO identify yourself as a Scholastic News Kid Reporter on your social media accounts if you wish.
- DO share your published stories with your followers, or share Scholastic social media posts about Kid Reporter stories if you wish.
